Generalized Darwinism:
A New Paradigm for Positive Cultural Change

Wednesday, October 18th | 4:00 pm | Lewis Scholars Lounge

David Sloan Wilson has made major contributions to generalized Darwinism throughout his 50-year career. He is SUNY Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Biology and Anthropology at Binghamton University and founder of the nonprofit organization ProSocial World, whose mission is "to consciously evolve a world that works for all." He has helped move evolutionary theory away from a presumption of selfishness and towards a model that prioritizes social cooperation. He works to connect activists, idealists, pragmatists, visionaries, and contemplative change agents with the science they need to intentionally evolve culture in positive ways.
